Imagine having the ability to succeed in an academic field, but not having the financial support to enter or complete college. The goal of the Joseph & Elizabeth Quansah (JEQ) Foundation is to reach as many deserving students in Ghana as we can, to help them on their path to higher education and realize their potential.

Many students in Ghana have the intelligence and resilience to succeed in their studies and become doctors, teachers, engineers, and entrepreneurs. But their families cannot afford the tuition and are unable to borrow from private lenders or the government.

College & University Cost in Ghana

- Application fee - $50 - $80
- Tuition - $500-$1,500 per year
- Housing - $400-$700 per year
- Laptop - $500

While their families in Ghana cannot meet these education costs, many U.S. donors can. Your tax-deductible contributions can help lift these bright young minds and their families out of poverty.

When You Give, You Make a Real Impact

Your donation is life-changing for these students and their families. College graduates in Ghana can earn as much as five times more than their peers without degrees.

- Average monthly salary, no college = $86- $100
- Average monthly salary, with a degree =
 - Public sector = $257
 - Private sector = $ 343 - $429

Because high achievement students across Ghana are seeking JEQ scholarship awards, there is a growing waitlist. Your gift can help JEQ expand its capacity to meet the increasing demand.

Your contribution opens the door to a world of opportunity for these deserving students. Please donate now.

Don't Delay, Give Today

These bright and hard-working young people will need your help to complete their educational objectives. Beyond this pilot group, as awareness of the program has grown in Ghana, so has the demand. Your donations build the capacity to serve many more aspiring students.
